

Metrics use features of a classifier trained on the real data (no Inception download). They rank generators of the same dataset; they are not comparable with standard FID numbers.